

In discharging the duties of their respective offices, Lewisboro's employees, elected and appointed officials are required to subordinate their private interests to the public interest. The Town has adopted a Code of Ethics to guide the conduct of its employees. In response to inquiries from the Town's public officials and employees about their current or proposed conduct, the Board renders confidential advisory opinions providing them with guidance about complying with the Town's Code of Ethics.

View PDF